

Norland Bursary Policy

Introduction

Widening Participation (WP) in higher education is a priority for the government, the higher education sector in general and Norland in particular. The current student body does not reflect the diversity represented in wider society. Norland recognises that for some students, barriers exist which prevent them from studying. Norland wishes to help all potential students, both UK and international, overcome those barriers and is committed to enhancing equal opportunities.

In order to support widening participation and improve students' access and participation, new students have the opportunity to apply for a Norland Emily Ward Bursary. The number awarded will vary from year to year and are dependent on affordability.

This policy is based on the guidance and good practice on access and participation provided by the Office for Students (OfS) where relevant <https://www.officeforstudents.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/promoting-equal-opportunities/access-and-participation-plans/>, as well as Norland's access and participation statement - <https://www.norland.ac.uk/college/study/widening-participation/>. It also follows the recommendations of the OfS regarding how and why financial support affects academic, personal and social outcomes, using the toolkit offered by the OfS - <https://www.officeforstudents.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/promoting-equal-opportunities/evaluation-and-effective-practice/financial-support-evaluation-toolkit/>

This policy also takes into consideration the Competition and Markets Authority (CMA) guidance - https://assets.publishing.service.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachment_data/file/411392/HE_providers_60ss.pdf - on the legal obligations of institutions in respect of the information made available to potential and current students. It ensures that all information regarding bursary provision is accurate, clear, unambiguous and up front. It also ensures all necessary information is accessible and available on our website.

Types of bursary available

There are three different bursaries available under the Norland Bursary scheme, as follows:

1. Up to 5 Emily Ward Bursary awards of £10,000 for each year of study for the duration of the three-year course.¹

Norland Bursary Policy

Process

Each student in receipt of an offer will automatically be sent an application form. Applicants are asked to provide evidence to support their application. For a list of suitable evidence please refer to the Emily Ward Bursary Application Notes, available on request.

Applications will be considered formally by the Bursary Awards Committee which will consist of the following (or their nominees):

- The Principal
- The Vice Principal
- The Widening Participation Officer
- The Chief Financial Officer

Each application is initially reviewed and any important missing information is requested. Each application is organised according to income level and Widening Participation criteria. All supporting student statements and further information is summarised and a log of all applications are prepared for the Bursary Awards Committee.

At Committee, where an offer has been made to a prospective student, all information including UCAS application form, interview day notes, references and each bursary application form with supporting information, are reviewed and appraised in accordance with the eligibility criteria. It should be noted that the Bursary Awards Committee will give full consideration to the supporting student statement and any further information within the bursary application form.

Bursary applications must usually be received by the end of the March before the year of course commencement (or as otherwise informed within the relevant Bursary Application Notes). The Committee will then meet to determine the award recipients. The panel will ensure that those awarded a bursary suitably fulfil the criteria outlined in this policy. The panel will take into account all the evidence made available. Judgements made by the Committee regarding recipients of the award will be discretionary, based on the extent to which each applicant addresses the eligibility criteria.

The Widening Participation Officer will ensure that the selection addresses the current Widening Participation policy and Norland's access and participation statement.

Following the Bursary Awards Committee meeting, all applicants will be notified as to the outcome of their application. Late applications may be considered if the bursary allocation has not been fully expended. These will be appraised using the same eligibility criteria as above.

The bursary will only be dispersed whilst the recipient is participating as a full-time student and eligibility for subsequent years requires successful completion of the previous year of the course.

Where a bursary is awarded and a student then chooses to defer their entrance, they will not retain the award and will be required to reapply for a bursary the following year. No guarantees are given that a bursary will be re-awarded in any subsequent year.

Norland Bursary Policy

The decision to award a bursary is wholly at the discretion of Norland, delegated to the Bursary Awards Committee. All decisions made by the Bursary Awards Committee are final and there are no appeals.

For application details please refer to the Emily Ward Bursary Application Notes, updated each year and available on request.
